

ANGIODYNAMICS PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

At AngioDynamics, we believe that people living with society's most challenging diseases deserve trusted medical solutions that deliver high-quality care, wellness, and cures to live healthier, happier lives.

We partner with your hospital and healthcare professionals to provide timely access to our team of subject-matter experts to help you build your program.

MEET THE TEAM

Over the years, we have developed a core team of experts to help give you the tools you need to succeed and to provide better patient care.

Medical Affairs

Physician Training, part of AngioDynamics' Medical Affairs department, provides physicians with robust learning options to increase their understanding and familiarity with our devices. Training is offered in a variety of modalities and your educational experience is our top priority. If interested in enrollment for one of our educational programs, please contact your Territory Manager for more details.

Clinical Affairs

The Clinical Affairs team provides our customers and our field team with a variety of support and tools to set programs up for success. We currently provide case support (onsite and/or virtual), product education, device training, staff in-services and planning calls for upcoming cases including peer-peer case discussions. Any member of the team can help refer/facilitate meetings between physicians/Medical Science Liaisons and Peer-to-Peer case selection discussions.

Sales Representative

As a part of the AngioDynamics network, your dedicated sales representative is readily available to assist you. (S)he is your point person who will guide you through program implementation at your hospital or clinic, as well as serve as your main contact for any and all of your questions.

Marketing & Communications

Our Marketing and Communications department can provide you with key marketing tools you need, both digital and print, to educate your practice and patients on the medical solutions you offer. We will happily work with your marketing and PR teams to get you the assets you need.
